

PROGRAM OUT FOR Y. W. C. A. CONGRESS

Prominent Speakers to Deal With Questions Affecting Woman's Welfare in April.

MISS WILSON A SPEAKER

Local Committee Crowds Full Week of Events for 1,000 Delegates.

General plans for the fourth biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States, to assemble in Richmond April 2, have passed the formative stage, and for all practical purposes the scene has been fully set. The program in detail was announced yesterday from convention headquarters in the Jefferson Hotel by Miss Louise W. Brooks, of New York, the executive secretary. Six crowded days of conferences and addresses have been prepared by the committee. All of 1,000 delegates are expected.

Although many notable speakers are to address the convention, there is little doubt that the appearance of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, on the platform on Saturday night will be the feature of the gathering in the public mind. Miss Wilson, who is a member of the student committee of the Young Women's Christian Association National Board, will speak on "What the Association Means to a College Girl."

The opening will be formally called to order at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, April 2, in St. Paul's Episcopal Church by Miss Grace H. Dodge, of New York, president of the National Board of Young Women's Christian Associations. A friendly welcome will be extended to the visitors by Miss Katherine H. Hawes, president of the Richmond Young Women's Christian Association, and the response will be made by Miss Dodge. Following the work of organization an address on "Religion" will be delivered by the Rev. Cornelius Woolf, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York City. The election of conference officers will close the session.

The night session will be opened at 7:15 o'clock, with an address on "The Responsibility of Christian Workers for the Betterment of Social Conditions," by Professor Graham Taylor, president of the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy; and a second address by the Rev. Henry Shaw Coffin, D. D., pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, on "The Conviction Adequate for the Social Task."

On Thursday an important business session is scheduled to begin at 9:30 o'clock. The annual report of the national board will be presented by Miss Grace H. Dodge, the president, and Miss Mabel Cratty, the general secretary of the national board. Plans for the work of the association at the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be offered for approval and reports of committees appointed at the last biennial convention will be presented. The devotional hour will be led by the Rev. James G. K. McClure, D. D., president of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

Commission Reports. The afternoon meeting will be featured by the reports of three commissions appointed by the national board on sex education, thrift and efficiency and moral standards. This will be

MRS. PARIS HELPS SISTER

Sister's Visit Proved Not Only a Pleasure, but Resulted in Much Good

Salt Creek, Va.—In interesting advice from this town, Mrs. W. H. Paris writes as follows: "I was down in bed with womanly troubles—dizziness, fainting spells, backache, headache, etc. I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and after taking several bottles I feel fine, and am able to do all my household work."

"My sister visited me this summer, and was suffering from the same trouble. Of course, I advised her to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and as a result she wrote me a few days ago that she had begun taking Cardui, and was feeling much better."

"I am still taking Cardui as a tonic, and I never fail to recommend it when I have a chance."

Cardui is successful because it is composed of pure vegetable ingredients that act gently on the delicate womanly organs, and helps build them back to health and strength in a natural manner.

For more than half a century Cardui has been used with entire satisfaction by thousands of sick and ailing women, as is proven by the hundreds of letters similar to the above which pour into our office year after year.

Testimony from those who have actually used Cardui surely indicates the value of this reliable woman's remedy.

followed by discussion, led by Dr. Anna L. Brown, secretary for physical education and hygiene; Miss Blanche Geary, secretary for economic work, and Miss Ethel Cutler, secretary for student religious work.

The night will be a reception by the national board at night at the Jefferson Hotel.

At the Friday morning session will be offered recommendations to be discussed freely on the floor. The presentation of the Association Monthly will be made by Miss Mary Louise Allen, of New York.

At the afternoon session will come an address on "The Development of Rural Leadership," by Joseph D. Eggleston, of the United States Bureau of Education, and president-elect of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and an address on "The Life of the Girl in the Country," by Miss Jessie Field, national secretary for Small Town and Country.

Three extremely important addresses are scheduled for the night meeting: "The Life of the Employed Girl in Cities," by Mrs. Raymond Robins, of Chicago, president of the National Women's Trade Union League; "The Life of the Woman of Leisure in Cities," by Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe, of Washington, and "The Training of Students for World Leadership," by Miss Rouse, of London, England, traveling secretary of the Student Christian Federation.

The report of the commission on the training of volunteer workers is scheduled to be presented at the Saturday morning session by Mrs. Seabury Cone, national member of the city committee of the national board. General session is to follow. Miss Harriet Taylor, of New York, will talk on finance and the national board pledges.

Planting Program. A great program "The Ministering of the Gift," will be presented by hundreds of girls in the afternoon at Joseph Park.

At night will come the address of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, on "What the Association Means to a College Girl."

There will be no Sunday morning session, but a mass-meeting for the afternoon will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the City Auditorium, with Miss Grace H. Dodge, president, and Miss Oloholm, of London, England, one of the national board secretaries. Monday is the last day of the convention. The morning session has been left free of scheduled events in order that any business remaining may be cleaned up.

Foreign work will be the general feature of the entire day's proceedings, especially afternoon and night. In the afternoon there will be an address on "The Young Women's Christian Association Movement in Great Britain," by Miss Elizabeth Pittman, of London, member of world's committee, and address on "The British Contribution to the World's Young Women's Christian Association," by Miss Pictou-Turber, of London, head of the association work in England and an address on "Our Generation and Our Vocation," by Miss Charlotte Spencer, of London, general secretary world's committee.

"China: A New World in the Making," will be the subject of the final address of the convention, to be delivered at night by the Rev. Frank W. Bible, of Hangeh, China.

GEORGE B. COX IS CHIEF INDUCTMENT

He Is Charged With Having Violated State Banking Laws.

RELEASED ON $10,000 BAIL

Ten Other Officers and Directors of Trust Company Also Made Defendants.

GEORGE B. COX.

Cincinnati, March 18.—George B. Cox, former political leader, and one-time president of the Cincinnati Trust Company, together with ten other officers and directors of the company, were charged with having violated the state banking laws in indictments returned to-day by the Hamilton County grand jury. The others indicted were: Nathaniel S. Keith, secretary of the company.

Pletcher R. Williams, treasurer, J. M. Crawford, director, once consul-general at St. Petersburg.

Charles H. Davis, director, former president of the Second National Bank.

David G. Edwards, director, broker, Dr. James F. Heady, director, James M. Hutton, director, broker, C. V. Parrish, Hamilton, Ohio, director of the chair company.

Norman G. Kenan, director, former president of the Union Gas and Electric Company.

L. N. Miller, director, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company here.

Two indictments were returned. One of nine counts charged Cox, Davis, Kenan, Heady, Hutton, Miller, Keith and Williams with misappropriation of $115,000 of the trust company's money through alleged illegal loans to the Ford & Johnson Chair Co., of Indianapolis. Cox was also a director of the chair company.

The second indictment, in two counts, charged Cox, Crawford, Davis, Edwards, Heady, Hutton, Keith, Williams and Parrish with the abstraction of a note for $352,500 with the intent to defraud the trust company.

All of the defendants gave bonds for $5,000 on each indictment.

August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National League club, signed the bonds for Cox's release.

Attorney-General Timothy Hogan said an effort would be made to get trials at the next term of court.

The assets of the trust company have been subject to investigation most of the time since its absorption by the Provident Savings Bank & Trust Co. in December, 1911.

The assets of the bank in November, 1911, at the instance of the State Banking Department. It was to cover alleged excessive loans made to the Ford & Johnson Co. Later the note was withdrawn and indictment charges, without payment, being made the bank.

The indictments charging misappropriation also were based on transactions with the Ford & Johnson Company, and charges that loans of $115,000 were made to the chair company when that concern owed more than $500,000 to the trust company. By the terms of the State law, the trust company, which was incorporated for $500,000, was forbidden to loan more than $100,000 to any individual firm or corporation.

The maximum penalty is a fine of $10,000, or thirty years' imprisonment, or both.

TAX IS HEAVIER THAN INTENDED

Mistake Probably Made in En-grossing and Enrolling New Revenue Act.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Raleigh, N. C., March 18.—The discovery was made to-day that the new revenue act imposes one-fiftieth of 1 per cent tax on capital of corporations as originally fixed by the House, instead of one-twenty-fifth of 1 per cent, to which it was reduced by Senate amendment and agreed to in conference committee during the closing days of the session. There seems to be no accounting for the error, except that the Senate amendment did not get included in the engrossing and enrollment of the measure for ratification.

However the error in the act may have occurred, the fact remains that corporations throughout the State will have to pay a very much heavier tax than the "one-twenty-fifth" rate that was intended to be enacted.

He will inspect two North Carolina troops soon, at Lincoln on April 6, and Asheville on April 18. The indications are that a third, and possibly a fourth troop of cavalry will be organized in North Carolina very soon now.

TWO MEN KILLED AT LUMBER CAMP

Double Murder Follows Day of Drinking and Gambling at Jasper.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Bristol, Va., March 18.—Jasper, a station on the Virginia and Southwest Virginia Railway, in Scott County, was the scene of a double murder last night, according to a special received here. Following a day of drinking and gambling at a lumber camp, a general quarrel broke out between two men, twenty years of age and married, drew a revolver and fired several shots in rapid succession. When the smoke cleared James Johnson lay dead on the floor, while P. J. Skidmore was dying, with two or three bullets in his body.

Young Minor is described as handy with a gun, and only recently he had been granted bail on the charge of having killed a negro in Tennessee, having his official duties in the community of Jasper.

Skidmore and Johnson were men of families, each being about fifty years of age.

BIG DINNER FOR NEW SECRETARY

Chamber Plans Elaborate Function in Honor of John Skelton Williams.

INVITE CABINET MEMBER

Director Suggests McAdoo for Address at Dinner Given to His Friend.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce gave its approval yesterday afternoon to a plan for a dinner to be given to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John Skelton Williams in recognition of his high service to the city of Richmond and the signal honor conferred upon it by President Wilson in calling him to assist Secretary McAdoo.

Tentative plans only were adopted. As far as they have taken shape they call for a dinner that will compare in elaborateness of appointment with any that has ever been given in this city.

A resolution was adopted naming President T. M. Carrington, of the Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the committee to be appointed by him which will to-day assume active charge of all plans. The date of the dinner, which will be given at one of the hotels, will be announced after a consultation with Mr. Williams.

May Name Cabinet Speaker. Invitations will be limited strictly to the membership of the Chamber of Commerce and to a small number of State and national dignitaries, who, with Mr. Williams, will be the guests of honor. It is probable that a member of President Wilson's Cabinet will be invited to make an address.

The dinner is planned to be a concrete expression of the city's gratefulness to the new Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Organization. Personality is not the only attribute an hotel must have to be successful. It must be organized, and the definition of "organize," according to Webster, is: "To arrange a task in suitable parts so that it may be performed efficiently."

To arrange in suitable parts is the secret of organization, and this arrangement can only be made by men trained in the work; by generals who can lead efficiently. Organization then can do much for your personal comfort.

How would your own business succeed without organization, without the division into units, each under a competent head?

Take the bell boys' department, the maids' department, the clerks' department, the lost and found department, the restaurant, the Dutch room, the musical department, the vaudeville show, and, in fact, on and on to the steamship department, the information department, the stenographic department, the receiving and shipping department, the laundry, the valet department—all the various departments must be under a competent head and run as a unit to be run with efficiency; efficiency of such a nature that you are served by them all in a proper manner.

The average person knows very little about the schooling and training necessary to have every employe, from the clerk who greets you at the desk to the porter who sees you to your train, serve you as you should be served, with courtesy, and as though it were a pleasure to please.

This instruction and training is the finishing touch to organization. This is what makes organization 98% plus. Every one is taught that courtesy and consideration are the first steps toward their own success.

And how you will notice this courtesy by comparison. No matter where you have stopped in the past, you will see the difference in the treatment you receive at the Martinique. You will feel that the attendants go out of their way to please you; you will realize the true meaning of organization at the

THE JUDGMENT HOUSE

It is a story whose sympathies are as wide as the world. The destinies of nations are interwoven with the lives of the two heroes—one a millionaire, a pioneer of the Cecil Rhodes type; the other a diplomat, with his finger on the pulse of the world. And the woman, like Cleopatra, influences the careers of empire-builders by her beauty and her cleverness. All those qualities of devouring interest which charmed a million men and women in "The Right of Way" and "The Weavers" are even more fully disclosed in this new work of the Master's hand.

MAY TURN CHRIS'S PICTURE TO WALL

Portrait in State Library Now Believed to Be Not That of Columbus.

Convinced that the portrait of Christopher Columbus, which has hung for years in the portrait gallery in the State Library is not a counterfeit presentation of Chris, at all, Librarian H. R. McIlwaine has almost determined to turn its face to the wall, or at least to put it among the archives until such a time as it can be identified.

Dr. McIlwaine is confirmed in this opinion by the conclusions of an invaluable work on Columbus, his times and his remains, recently compiled and published in several volumes. All known portraits of the real man are reproduced in this work, and no one of them looks anything like the picture in the library labeled "Columbus."

Former Librarian W. W. Scott knows nothing of the origin of the questionable portrait, nor is there any record of how it came into the possession of the State.

Among the interesting facts gleaned about the discoverer of America by Dr. McIlwaine from the writings of contemporaries, is the fact that Columbus had red whiskers. This has produced a marked impression on the bearded sons of sunny Italy are, to say the least of it, rather scarce. From the pictures reproduced in the work mentioned, it seems Columbus frequently shaved, for some of them show him without hirsute appendage. This point may trouble Dr. McIlwaine in linking the alleged Columbus portrait with other discoveries of his day, notably Ferdinand and Magellan, since he is not informed whether or not he was so equipped that the winds of Cape Horn could blow through Fred's whiskers.

Again, the book says that the Spaniards were hunched when they thought they took Columbus's bones from Cuba back to their own land.

Dr. McIlwaine says the body is still in San Domingo, with the exception of certain sections of his dust, which were grabbed and carried about to different spots, some of it to Genoa, and a fraction to America. The Spaniards, it seems, purchased a gold brick. Their sightseers who bare their heads in front of what they think is Columbus's tomb do so in as blissful ignorance of their mistake as the thousands who have seen his probably spurious portrait in the Virginia portrait gallery.

Home Rule Will Be Benefited to World.

Chicago, March 18.—Secretary of State Bryan, in his address here last night at the St. Patrick's Day banquet of the Irish Fellowship Club, reiterated his words of Saturday at the St. Patrick's banquet in Washington.

"Two years from now Ireland will be celebrating home rule," he said. "There is every reason to believe that the House of Commons in London will pass the bill again and make law."

Mr. Bryan declared the victory for Ireland would be a victory for the world, and would mark the end of aristocratic rule.

"When the House of Lords is compelled to bow to the people," said Mr. Bryan, "it will mean the beginning of home rule for the whole earth. It will be a tremendous triumph for Ireland, and her part in the great struggle will be gratefully remembered by every country that is struggling for freedom."

The victory of this great principle will not be acceptable at first, perhaps, to Great Britain and Scotland, but they will in the end find that it is immensely to their benefit.

Mr. Bryan confined his address to congratulations on the prospect of home rule. He did not refer at any time during his stay here to national or State politics, or make any law, as he left. "It might have been better if I had many ears and no tongue. I am not talking now. I am listening."

TOWNS NO LONGER WILL BE DIVIDED

Winston-Salem and Salem by Large Majorities Vote for Consolidation.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winston-Salem, N. C., March 18.—Winston-Salem and Salem after May 1 will be one municipality. This was decided in an election held to-day, in which Winston by a majority of 540 votes carried the city for consolidation. Salem endorsed the proposition by a majority of 161. A street running east and west has been the dividing line between the two towns since Winston was established fifty-five years ago.

Under the new order, in accordance with an act of the last Legislature, the laws governing Winston will prevail under the new and larger city, which will be known as Winston-Salem, and which will have a population in accordance with the last census of 25,000.
